

Energy Savers

There are several types of energy saving technology, including green homes and buildings, fuel efficient vehicles, and power efficient computers. Switching to CFL light bulbs can help save energy. Green homes are a good example of how these technologies can affect daily life. One of the simplest energy saving technologies is building insulation.

